There was a man who met Jesus who had demons. For a long time he had worn no clothes, and he had not lived in a house but among the tombs. When he saw Jesus, he cried out and fell down before him and said with a loud voice, "What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me."

For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. (For many a time it had seized him. He was kept under guard and bound with chains and shackles, but he would break the bonds and be driven by the demon into the desert.)

Jesus then asked him, "What is your name?" And he said, "Legion," for many demons had entered him. And they begged him not to command them to depart into the abyss.

What is your name?

A large herd of pigs was feeding there on the hillside, and they begged him to let them enter these. So he gave them permission.

For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. (For many a time it had been driven by the devil and had gone into the desert.) But he would not let him alone, keep under guard and bound with chains and shackles, but he would break the bonds and be driven by the devil into the desert.)
What is your name? Jesus then asked him, "What is your name?" And he said, " Legion," for many demons had entered him. And they begged him not to command them to depart into the abyss.
Then the demons came out of the man and entered the pigs, and the herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake and were drowned.
When the herdsmen saw what had happened, they fled and told it in the city and in the country. Then people went out to see what had happened, and they came to Jesus and found the man from whom the demons had gone, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind, and they were afraid.
Then all the people of the surrounding country of the Gerasenes asked him to depart from them, for they were seized with great fear. So he got into the boat and returned.
